The Bassmaster Classic is widely regarded as the most prestigious tournament in professional bass fishing, often called the “Super Bowl of Bass Fishing.”

March 14, 2026

In 2026, the legendary championship returns with even more excitement as anglers and fans gather for the 2026 Bassmaster Classic, a spectacular four-day event featuring intense competition, live broadcasts, fan expos, and community celebrations. The tournament takes place from March 12 to March 15, 2026, in the vibrant city of Knoxville, with anglers competing on the famous Tennessee River.

Watch Bassmaster Classic 2026 Action

The Bassmaster Classic has been the pinnacle of professional bass fishing since it was first held in 1971. Organized by the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society, the event brings together the world's best anglers who have qualified through elite tournament circuits and championships. Over the decades, the Classic has grown into a global spectacle that combines sport, entertainment, and outdoor culture. With millions of fans following the action online and through television broadcasts, the tournament continues to showcase the thrill of competitive bass fishing.

The Venue and Setting

For the 2026 edition, the Classic returns to Knoxville, Tennessee, a city known for its scenic riverfront and deep fishing heritage. The anglers compete on sections of the Tennessee River, including nearby lakes and tributaries that are famous for both largemouth and smallmouth bass. The river system presents unique challenges because water conditions, weather patterns, and fish behavior can change rapidly, forcing competitors to adapt their strategies throughout the tournament.

Each morning of the competition, anglers launch their boats from Volunteer Landing along the Knoxville waterfront, creating a dramatic start to the day's fishing action. Thousands of fans gather to watch the takeoff ceremony as dozens of high-powered bass boats speed toward their fishing locations across the river system. The event not only highlights the skill of professional anglers but also showcases the beauty and ecological importance of the Tennessee River region.

Live Broadcast and Global Viewing

One of the most exciting aspects of the Bassmaster Classic 2026 Live experience is the real-time coverage that allows fans around the world to follow every moment of the tournament. Through Bassmaster's digital streaming platforms and sports television networks, viewers can watch anglers catching fish, analyzing conditions, and making strategic decisions on the water. Live broadcasts bring fans closer to the action than ever before, with multiple camera angles, expert commentary, and on-the-boat interviews.

Television coverage of the event is broadcast nationally through major sports networks, including FOX. The tournament's live programming ensures that audiences can watch the dramatic weigh-ins and championship moments as they happen. For viewers who cannot attend in person, the live coverage recreates the energy and suspense of the tournament, making them feel like part of the crowd.

Competition Format

The Bassmaster Classic follows a three-day competition format where anglers attempt to catch the heaviest possible total weight of bass. Each day, competitors bring their best catches to the official weigh-in arena. Only five bass per angler are counted each day, and the combined weight determines the standings.

The competition begins with a full field of anglers on Day 1 and Day 2. After the second day, the top 25 anglers advance to the final round on Day 3. The angler with the highest total weight at the end of the final day is crowned the Bassmaster Classic Champion. Winning the Classic is considered the ultimate achievement in professional bass fishing and often transforms the champion into a global fishing icon.

Live Weigh-In Shows

One of the most exciting parts of the Classic experience is the live weigh-in event, held at the Food City Center. Every afternoon, thousands of fans pack the arena to watch anglers present their catches on stage. The atmosphere is electric as competitors reveal their fish and the leaderboard shifts dramatically with each weigh-in.

The weigh-in shows are more than just a scoring ceremony—they are full entertainment productions featuring music, giveaways, sponsor promotions, and fan interactions. As the final day unfolds, tension builds until the last angler steps on stage. In that moment, the champion of the 2026 Bassmaster Classic is officially crowned, creating one of the most memorable scenes in professional fishing.

Fan Experience and Expo

Beyond the competition itself, the Bassmaster Classic offers an extensive fan experience. One of the largest attractions is the Bassmaster Classic Outdoors Expo held at the Knoxville Convention Center. The expo features hundreds of booths from fishing brands, outdoor companies, and equipment manufacturers. Fans can test new gear, attend demonstrations, and meet professional anglers.

The event also includes family-friendly activities, such as tailgate parties, fishing seminars, and interactive exhibits. Visitors can learn advanced fishing techniques, watch product demonstrations, and explore the latest innovations in fishing technology. Many of the sport's biggest names participate in autograph sessions and meet-and-greet events, making the expo a dream destination for fishing enthusiasts.

Kickoff Events and Community Celebration

The Classic week begins with several pre-tournament celebrations, including the Kickoff Party and Media Day. These events allow fans to interact with anglers, attend concerts, and celebrate the start of the championship weekend. Community activities bring together local residents, tourists, and fishing fans from across the country.

Knoxville embraces the event with festivals, food vendors, and outdoor activities throughout the city. The Classic not only highlights professional fishing but also promotes tourism and economic activity in the region. For many visitors, attending the Bassmaster Classic becomes a full vacation experience filled with outdoor adventure and entertainment.

The Legacy of the Bassmaster Classic

Since its founding, the Bassmaster Classic has produced legendary champions and unforgettable moments. Anglers such as Kevin VanDam and Rick Clunn have become icons of the sport through their Classic victories. Winning this tournament represents the highest level of achievement in competitive bass fishing and can define an angler's career.

The Classic continues to evolve with modern technology, advanced fishing strategies, and expanded global coverage. From forward-facing sonar to high-definition live streaming, the tournament now blends tradition with cutting-edge innovation. Despite these changes, the core spirit of the event remains the same: celebrating the skill, dedication, and passion of anglers pursuing the biggest bass on the water.

Conclusion

The Bassmaster Classic 2026 Live experience is far more than a fishing tournament—it is a worldwide celebration of angling culture. From thrilling boat launches and dramatic live weigh-ins to massive fan expos and global broadcasts, the event brings together the best anglers and most passionate fans in the sport.

As the competition unfolds on the Tennessee River in Knoxville, millions of viewers will watch history being made. Whether attending in person or watching live online, fans can witness the intense pursuit of the championship title and the crowning of the next Bassmaster Classic legend. The 2026 Bassmaster Classic promises unforgettable moments, extraordinary catches, and a spectacular showcase of the world's greatest bass fishing competition.
